

C-3.21

The idea is to keep a running sum of the column index of each row.

Start at the bottom left of the matrix. Walk across the row until a 0 is found. When the first 0 is found, add the column index to the running sum then step up to the next row (without resetting the column position). Continue this procedure until the top row is traversed.